

GENERALIA - Success stories

Micro-generation racks in Kenya

These self-supporting racks which include everything needed for the micro-generation of electricity will power, during several years, low-energy lamps for night lighting with a storage capacity of 3 days. The system is scalable and can multiply your current power by 6. Thus a limited initial investment does not imply a limited future growth if eventually needed.